Prof. SAM Afrane Commends Government's Policy on Rotation of Independence Day Celebration

Prof. Sam Afrane, President of Christian Service University College (CSUC), has observed that the policy to rotate Ghana's Independence Day celebrations from the usual Independence Square in Accra to the various regional capitals is an 'innovative policy for national development'.

Excerpt:

Ghana has been commemorating its Independence Day on every 6th March, since 1957, in the Nation's Capital, Accra, until 2019 when the rotation of the celebration to the regional capitals began. As witnessed, Ghana

A MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT ON COVID-19

'Cessation of our face-to-face teaching does not mean academic work has ceased,' Prof. Sam Afrane, President of CSUC addresses students and staff of Christian Service University College in the wake of the global pandemic, COVID-19.

THE ADDRESS:

Undoubtedly, the entire world is going through real historic moments. The common word everywhere is the novel coronavirus also known as COVID –19. Within a short period of four months, the outbreak of this deadly virus has affected almost all countries, big and small, rich and poor, developed and developing, etc.

PASTORAL MESSAGE ON CORONAVIRUS

The Chaplain of Christian Service University College, Rev. Anthony Boateng Agyenim, has encouraged religious faithfuls to hold on to their faith and lean on God in the storms of the global coronavirus pandemic.

The minister of God noted, 'we live in a critical time when the ominous cloud of the coronavirus hangs over all peoples on earth.' The numbers of the infected and dead keep rising every minute, leading to over one million confirmed cases and over 50,000 deaths recorded globally in less than three months. Locally in Ghana, within the period of three weeks, the number of confirmed infections is 204 with five deaths and 31 recovered as at April 2, 2020. The world's powerful economies are ...

CSUC Alumnus, Richard Kwarteng, Invents Solar-Powered Hand-Washing Device

Christian Service University College (CSUC) is proud to congratulate, Mr. Richard Kwarteng, 2012 Alumnus (Marketing Option), for his timely invention of a solar-powered hand-washing device, as a control measure against the spread of the COVID-19 pandemic. According to Mr. Kwarteng, the device does not require people to physically touch the tap as the device has an inbuilt remote sensor that automatically detects an outstretched hand for washing.

"The purpose is to aid the frequent and effective washing of hands without having to physically turn the tap or touch soap containers to avoid ...
